COLORS RESTORED.—A letter from Washington of 27th September, says: "There was an interesting ceremony at General Smith's camp this afternoon. Some days ago, General McClellan gave directions that the flags of the Seventy-ninth should be restored to the regiment. This afternoon the regiment marched to the parade-ground of the brigade, for the purpose of receiving the banners, which were escorted to the field by the Third Vermont Regiment. The two regiments being drawn up in line, facing each other, the colors were saluted, and then transferred from the Vermont to the Highland Regiment. On transferring the banners General Smith thus addressed them: 'Soldiers of the Seventy-ninth: By direction of the Major General commanding, I restore to you at last the banners of the regiment. Since you have been under my command you have earned them. I hope that when an opportunity offers you will prove yourselves worthy of them.' The Seventy-ninth then saluted the colors, and a salvo of artillery from a battery of thirty-two pounders, ended the ceremonies.

FROM MEXICO.—Copious advices have been received at Washington from Mexico, and they are of a more encouraging nature than anything which has come since the installation of the Juarez Administration in the National Capital last December. It appears that the first moment the Government succeeded in disenthralling itself from the meshes of intrigue and the depressing influences thrown around and upon it by European diplomacy and domestic discord, it went to work and instituted measures to develop the resources of the country. In the first place, a contract was concluded to run a line of steamers, monthly, between San Francisco and Mazatlan, and a semi-monthly line between Acapulco and Guaymas, touching at Manzanillo, San Blas, Mazatlan and La Paz.

THE INACTIVITY OF THE REBEL ARMY.—The Georgia News of August 27th, says that the chief topic of conversation there is the inactivity of the army. Much criticism has been passed upon Gen. Beauregard, and those who are believed to direct the movements of the army, more particularly respecting his failure to occupy or destroy Alexandria or Washington City. Congress called for information on this point, and the President referred the inquiry to Gen. Beauregard, who, in his answer, placed the blame where it really belonged. He had been for weeks almost beseeching the War Department to supply him with the material needful to carry on the war—men, ammunition, provisions, wagons; but he was unable to obtain them.

ST. JOSEPH WHILE IN REBEL HANDS.—The St. Joseph (Mo.) Postmaster went to St. Louis, recently, and from him it was learnt how St. Joseph folk got on under the rebel rule in that place, which lasted ten days. The rebels were hot after horse-flesh—they stole every thing that could claim the name of horse, and every four-wheeled vehicle they could lay hands on. He says they did not touch the California mails, and spared all but four of the horses belonging to the Overland Mail Company. They carried off some $100,000 worth of property, to which their only right was might.

WESTERN VIRGINIA.—A letter from Washington says: "Virginia, west of the Blue Ridge, will in future constitute a separate command, to be called the Department of Western Virginia, under General Rosencranz—headquarters in the field. General Rosencranz will draw for reinforcements by requisition upon the Governor of Ohio, as heretofore, or by orders addressed direct to the United States commander in that State, as often as necessary."

COTTON CHEAP.—The Columbus (Miss.) Republic remarks that a bale of cotton weighing 400 pounds will bring $32; and two hogs, weighing each 200 pounds, will bring about the same amount. The Southern planters can raise the hogs at one-quarter less the expense, and many of them announce their determination to give up their cotton fields and go in for hog-raising.

GEN. C. F. SMITH AT PADUCAH—WHO IS HE?—He is a Pennsylvanian—graduate of West Point in 1825. He distinguished himself in the battles of Palo Alto, Resaca de la Palma, Monterey, Contreras, and Churubusco. He has been regularly promoted to the office of Brigadier General, and is now in command of the forces at Paducah, where he is acting with much vigor.

TIMELY ADVICE.

Eat only what is proper food;
Drink only that which does you good;
Spend only what you can afford;
Lend only what will be restored.
Then you will have no cause to say,
I was a fool on yesterday.

FRIDAY MORNING, OCT 18, 1861

Affairs at the East

Our people seem to be anxiously looking for some decisive action on the part of the federal forces. The battle of Manassas was the result of the same anxiety [illegible] we trust, will not be repeated. When our forces move we wish them to be ready. It seems to be little thought of that the rebels have had this war in contemplation for a long period; that the very officers of the cabinet under President Buchanan, were engaged for a long time in movements to disarm the government, and to place means in the hands of the rebels to successfully resist it. While Jeff. Davis was occupying a seat in the U. S. Senate, he was making his military arrangements for the South, selecting his generals and with his friends, demoralizing as far as they could our army and navy, or scattering them in places remote from points of danger, or placing them in positions where they would be surrendered to the rebels by the traitors placed in their command. We found men ready to act with these traitors and assist them, not only in the South, but in the free States, as spies and traitors. Who doubts that those here who would pray to God for the defeat of our arms, would raise their muskets against the government and its friends if they dared to do so?

When Mr. Lincoln took his seat as President, as far as possible, the Cabinet of his predecessor, had destroyed the government and the Union. Mr. Lincoln, with the patriotic citizens of the North, had to re-establish it. They went to work with all the energy of men engaged in so holy a cause. They have, and are still introducing order out of chaos, and are consolidating the power and the means of government to put down the rebellion. This has been, apparently, a slow process, but it is being brought about—and every day the government is adding to its strength and its means to sustain itself. Successes or defeats hitherto have not influenced the coming results. The nation has scarcely begun to fight, while the whole power of the rebels is in the fight. While the government is rendering its strength impregnable, we believe the rebels are as certainly exhausting their power. Their army at Washington has not attacked ours. Their whole coast is being thoroughly blockaded. Our armies will soon be upon them. The rebels have not means to sustain this war. Every day that their armies lay inactive or moving, is weakening them and exhausting their resources.—They are vainly hoping that foreign nations will interfere in their behalf. It will not be done. The opinion of the world is against them.

Let our people be patient. This rebellion will be crushed. Its friends in the free States, will yet feel to cry out for the mountains and rocks to fall upon and cover them from the indignation of an incensed people. This may not take place in a moment—in one month—or in six months—but it will come. The liberties of thirty millions of people, and the hopes of the down trodden of the whole world will be sustained in a manner that will dispose of this vast treason to human rights for a century to come.

Great discoveries have been made in Lane County. Somebody writes to the secession paper here, that "the people of that county have more fully discovered the policy which should govern the citizens of the Pacific coast than those of any other locality." What these discoveries are we infer from this remark:

"Elopements and slope-ments have been the order here for some months. Quite all the marriages have been consummated by elopements, and the departure of several citizens of greater or lesser prominence, have been effected by slope-ments."

Samuel T. M'Kean and George L. Curry

The [illegible] has waked at last. [illegible] garrulous [illegible]

[illegible] let them alone, let us have [illegible] an unholy war with [illegible]

There is a higher law—not only a higher but the highest law, which is the law [illegible] equally applicable to individuals [illegible] governments, and the administrators of any government that do not [illegible] all the means in their power to protect the government over which they preside [illegible] are not worthy the confidence of the people and should be hurled from the place they have proved themselves unworthy to fill. Shall not patents, pensions and pay [illegible] be withheld from each and every person who will not take a full and unreserved oath of allegiance and fidelity to the government? I think they should in every instance. Constitutionality [illegible] to be frittered away by [illegible] sensibility. The [illegible] says the people are the sovereigns and the President is their servant. This is true, and the sovereigns expect their servant to do his duty, and see that the [illegible] and if it is necessary [illegible] (just as was done by Gen. Jackson) in doing it, the people will say, "Well done, good and faithful servant," and this will be all the Constitutional guarantee the President will need.

As to that election which is to be held some time hence, I will only say that the people have generally accorded to me as much talent and fitness for office as I have claimed [illegible]. If however I should ever become so far in my dotage as to fancy that I was competent to fill a seat in the Senate of the United States, I expect the people would [illegible] by me as they have done by some others [illegible] stances.

SAMUEL T. M'KEAN.

All have heard of John Mitchell. He was engaged in the Irish agitation some years since, was made prisoner, sent to the English penal colony in Australia, returned to the United States, commenced the publication of a paper in New York, which [illegible] afterwards [illegible] the principles and [illegible] of slavery and lost his patrons; went South and bought a plantation and negroes [illegible] the rebellion and has two sons [illegible] of that rebellion and his [illegible] half [illegible] Union [illegible]

The Philadelphia Inquirer publishes a list of soldiers belonging to the Pennsylvania Reserve Corps [illegible] service of the United States. The Governor has directed them to be [illegible]

The Sacramento Union says that [illegible] military [illegible] movements within the State, that two regiments will be sent to Washington [illegible] to have their headquarters at Steilacoom and Fort Vancouver respectively. [illegible] be retained in Northern California [illegible] headquarters at [illegible] and one regiment [illegible] Lieutenant Col. No Pony.—The telegraph line is down between [illegible]reka and Marysville and in consequence we have received no pony express news.

[illegible]

Where Their Sympathies Are.—That the sympathies of all the secession editors in this State are with the secessionists is evident from the fact that they direct all their malice in attacks against the present Administration, but they have not one word of condemnation for the conduct of the Southern leaders. [illegible] seen in one of the Californian [illegible] papers a single leading article upon the [illegible] of the rebellion, its wickedness [illegible] its impolicy. And except in [illegible] stances the Secession Press of this State has never even allowed that the rebellion was a rebellion at all. While its [illegible] have been stigmatised as despots, tyrants, traitors and villains, no word of the slightest censure [illegible] in their columns against the character and conduct of the ringleaders. Were Davis and Beauregard to make [illegible] —Marysville [illegible]

The Position of Kentucky.—The State of Kentucky has taken her position. All the soft blandishments of Jeff Davis, Magoffin, Breckinridge and others have failed to shake her patriotism. The St. Louis [illegible] says of the "Dark and Bloody Ground":—

Kentucky is now finally and irrevocably fixed [illegible] Southern Confederacy. As with Missouri, with Kentucky [illegible] Well done Kentucky!"

HEADS.—We are told by one well informed on the subject, that Dr. DeWolfe, in examining the heads of the prisoners at the penitentiary very fairly presented the leading points in the character of their owners. We apprehend our reporter was joking when the Dr. is made to speak of the examination of heads in other places. He may have examined the head of our re[illegible]——we won't say.

NEW INVENTION.—The machinery invented by H. S. Jacobs for putting felloes on wagon wheels, and finishing the same, was inspected yesterday by the committee appointed at the State Fair for that purpose. We understand that the experiments made proved quite successful. The committee will soon report on the subject.

INJURED.—A little boy attending the public school was seriously injured yesterday, by being struck in the eye with a nail which was fast in the end of a board.

WARNING.—S. Blumauer had to pay three dollars and costs, in the Recorder's Court, yesterday, as a fine for keeping a dog which tore the coat of a passerby, the other day.

Summary of News from the "Mountaineer."

The reason for the lukewarmness of our young men to enlist in the proposed volunteer company of cavalry, originate in the fact that they have no confidence in the gentleman who has been appointed enrolling officer. They say that he is a secessionist and that his deputies sympathize with the Southern rebellion.

Mr. Lockwood, of Capt. Pierce's prospecting company, has returned to the Dalles. He brought in specimens of what is supposed to be silver ore. They first struck the "lode" near Grande Ronde, and traced it more than 100 miles.

The contractor for transferring the Indian goods from the Dalles to the Yakima reservation has abandoned the contract and it will be given to new parties.

The Mountaineer complains—(and if it be true, justly)—that Indian boys are not taught the common trades of carpenter, blacksmith, and others, on the reservations, as provided for by treaties.

Lt. Mullan writes to the Mountaineer that he is progressing well with his mountain roads. He thinks it will be the route for the overland communication from Montreal to Puget Sound in case of war between England and the United States; "and that project which low, vile-mouthed ignorant jackanapes and penny-a-line politicians of Oregon and Washington have attempted to throw abuse upon, will rise to an importance that will render the barking of such curs as harmless in the future as it has been to me amusing in the past." [Somebody, we presume is hit, by this remark; but we are not aware for whom it is extended.]

Dr. J. W. Hunter, physician at the Warm Springs, has resigned.

The Mountaineer says that Superindent Kendall has been "waking up the old fossils" at Simcoe, and that some of them will be found to make good time over the road.

LATE EMIGRANTS.—The overland escort was delayed by the necessity of bringing up the emigrants in the rear. There was a party from Missouri, who commenced the journey late, with a poor team, badly provisioned, and who seemed to have no proper sense of the difficulties of their situation. The escort had to furnish teams to haul them, and the party seemed to adopt every obstacle to produce delay. They were constantly gathering up cast away property and loading down their wagons. This became such an annoyance that they were informed that it would no longer be permitted, and that unless they threw away the plunder they had gathered, and acted more like rational beings, the Government teams would be taken from them, and they would be left on the plains. Finally they did this. They were a miserable class of people to add to our population. We are thankful that the party we speak of are the only exception to the excellent class of emigrants that came over the plains this season.

Well prepared for the journey, intelligent and energetic emigrants can make it scarcely more serious than a long pic-nic, on the plains.

Our last news from Oro Fino, is to the effect that gold diggings continue to be discovered on the South Fork, and still richer diggings on the Salmon river. There was supposed to be more gold in the hands of miners and those at Oro Fino than had been sent below.—Miners do not like to sell gold dust at the mines. They prefer to bring it down and get the highest price for it. Many miners are said to be going below to spend the winter.

☞ Swett's Grape Bitters, or Restorative Wine, manufactured under the supervision of Mrs. A. M. Swett, the celebrated Clairvoyant Physician and prepared to embody and hold [illegible] medicinal virtue, combined with the pure juice of the California Grapes—a certain remedy for Liver Complaint, Debility, Biliousness, Costiveness, Dyspepsia, Impaired Appetite, Impure Breath, &c., and all [illegible] requiring a powerful Liver Invigorator and Tonic. Warranted the best [illegible] ever invented for diseases peculiar to females, such as [illegible] Whites, Weakness, &c. Sold by all Druggists and by DANIEL SWETT, Proprietor, 255 Clay street, San Francisco. aug20ds

☞ The Medical and Surgical Institute of DR. L. J. CZAPKAY is [illegible] secured in a position which places it, as well as its proprietor, far above the assaults of envy and [illegible]. In the schools of France, the highest prizes are often awarded to practitioners in this department of medical science, and they occupy, with others, an equally lofty position in the profession. Ricord is [illegible] a shining light among the philosophical stars of his age in Europe and Dr. Czapkay has lately equalled him in this country; as a proof of which, the Philadelphia College of Medicine complimented him with a diploma and the honorary ad eundem degree. Selecting this as his field of operation, although qualified as a graduate of the University of Pesth, and late Chief Surgeon of the Hungarian Revolutionary army, for more extended labors, Dr. L. J. Czapkay has bent his earnest attention to the cure of chronic [illegible] diseases, in which he has become so great an expert that he is now regarded as the DOCTOR in this branch of his profession throughout the United States, and his portrait and biography are published as matter of interest to their readers in the most exclusive journals. The Doctor's office is at his Medical and Surgical Institute, on Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, nearly opposite the buildings of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, San Francisco. We ask particular attention of our readers to the sworn certificates of remarkable cures in another column of this paper. Persons not wishing to lose time in correspondence, please enclose $10 in their letters, and they will get immediate attention to their cases. Address, L. J. CZAPKAY, M.
